

I have been informed that there is a proposal of an "a la carte cable" regulation coming before the Congress. I am angered that there is such a prejudice against people that have a faith.

The government already supports "liberalism," humanism," "every faith except a Christian one (including atheism)." and proclaims boldly "equality. National PUBLIC Radio is a joke. It is left-sided, it bashes the President of the United State and the government pays for such trash. Why not have regulations on biased media? Why am I paying for an entire radio network that goes against what I think and believe? And yet now, those who actually pay to air their opinions (Christian Programming), you are trying to silence! What kind of equality and free speech is that?

So, now the Congress and the FCC is proposing yet another biased-slant against those who would share their opinion from a conservative moral foundation. Stop this! It is absurd to be an agent of free speech, and yet discriminate against those who have a faith. You pay for people to express atheism, and yet you would try to silence those who pay for their airtime to express their views. This is wrong and un-American!

If you believe in a free America, do not be an agent that would try to muzzle a strong voice in the American culture. Do not pass this "a la carte cable" regulation.
